The warning to the Carranzaists came from the War Department.

THE CAWLEY CASE HAS UGLY ASPECT

Judge Cox Issued Warrant, Fixing Bond at $6,000.

CAWLEY WAS NOT ARRESTED

Up to Last Night. Details of Case First Given to the Public in the Daily Gazette

Fuller details appeared in the morning papers concerning the attempted assault on a young school teacher at Ashburn. This was first made public in the Daily Gazette Monday afternoon, from information received from Ashburn over long distance telephone.

At the time the warrant for Crawley's arrest had not been issued and he was walking around on the streets at noon Monday, unmolested.

Here is the account sent to the morning papers:

Ashburn, Sept. 27.—Public feeling is running dangerously high here tonight against F. J. Crawley the local grocer, who is accused by one of the lady teachers in the public schools here of having lured her out of town late Friday afternoon and subjected her by force to gross mistreatment. The lady is now said to be in a very serious condition as a result of Crawley's attack on her.

Hundreds of men who have been convinced that the young woman has been brutally mistreated are on the streets in an extremely ugly frame of mind. There is a feeling that Crawley will be roughly dealt with if apprehended and brought to Ashburn. A warrant charging an attempted criminal assault has been sworn out for Crawley by the young lady, and the bond was fixed at six thousand by Judge Cox in Albany late today. The judge made the case returnable to himself and the preliminary trial is set for hearing here next Saturday.

The Teacher's Story

The story of the assault as told by the young lady is that Crawley, a young married grocer, whom she had known for some time, approached her on the street about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and suggested that she go for a short ride in the country with him, his wife, and a young lady for whom he was trying to secure a school in the country. When she entered the car, Crawley drove rapidly out of town. When he declined to go by his home and get his wife and the other young lady, the teacher became suspicious and asked to be put out of the car. Crawley, she claims, declined to let her leave the car, driving into the country for a distance of some seven or eight miles, where he talked a few minutes to a farmer, and began the return trip to Ashburn.

It was on the return trip, she claims, he began his improper and insulting proposals to her, becoming more and more insistent as they neared home. How long she was tortured in resisting him she does not know, but claims that the drive home was very slow. Within little less than a mile of the streets lamps she claims his conduct became so unbearable she was forced to jump from the car while it was moving and was knocked unconscious and knew nothing more until the blood was being wiped from her face in her room.

A badly bruised eye and ugly gash on the chin and cheeks, also several bruises on her body, indicated that she struck the hard clayed road on her face. Crawley is said to have taken her up and placed her in the car, and, after reaching her boarding place which is one of the wealthiest homes in the city, left her with the terror-stricken members of the family, declining to summon a physician. A physician was quickly summoned, however, who dressed the wounds, but it was several hours before the victim was able to tell what had occurred.

Crawley, so far, has failed to give out a plausible explanation, and strong efforts are being made by officers and citizens to locate him. Crawley is prominently connected in Ashburn and the young lady is well known here, having taught in the public schools for the past two years. She is one of the most highly esteemed members of the present faculty.

When the warrant was sworn out for Crawley Monday afternoon and he heard of it, he left town in a car. Learning that he was gone and the direction taken, two cars carrying about seven or eight Ashburn citizens followed him. They overtook Crawley on the Flint river bridge at Albany just after he had been placed under arrest by an Albany officer.

Crawley was remanded to the Dougherty county jail for safe keeping, as it was not considered safe to carry him back to Ashburn.

NATIONAL BOARD WILL VISIT TIFT

A Commission to Inquire Into Our Work in Rural Schools.

TIFT REPRESENTS HIGHEST

Type of Work in Rural Schools in the State and Commission Will Study and Report Here

The National Education Board will send a commission of experts to Tift county this fall to take notes on the rural school work being done here.

The work that has been done in Tift in behalf of the rural schools has on two previous occasions received notice from the national head of education work.

A commission has been named by Chairman Claxton, of the National Board, to visit the State in the union and inquire into the educational methods pursued. State Superintendent of Schools M. L. Brittain has referred the members of the commission who will visit Georgia to Tift county, as he regards the work being done here among the country schools as of the highest type in the state.

The commission will probably come to Tift county some time within the next few weeks. It is desired that the visit be deferred until November, as the schools do not open until the first week in October, and it will require some time to get the grounds in shape and for the schools to attain the maximum attendance.

A MILLION DOLLAR BANK

Resources of Bank of Tifton $1,091,676. Deposits $815,481

A new record in Tifton banking circles was made Monday, when the resources of the Bank of Tifton passed the Million dollar mark.

Several times these resources have neared the million during the past few weeks and two years ago, in the fall of 1913, they came within $50,000 of that figure, but never quite reached it. Not only have they passed the million mark now, but are close to $1,100,000, the exact figures being $1,091,676.26.

More remarkable than the total resources, are the deposits, which have reached $815,481.22, being $200,000 higher than any previous record.

This strong showing is not only good for the bank, but for all of Tifton. It is a wholesome revival of business conditions, evidence of the fact that producers have something to sell and at a profitable price; that those owing debts are paying them.

Big bank resources mean healthy business and a prosperous community. It means that there are local institutions, because resources and deposits are the largest ever known, even in Tifton's most prosperous days, show that there is more money in Tifton and invested in Tifton institutions than at any previous period in the city's history.

The Bank of Tifton is an integral part of Tifton; that it is doing so well is evidence that Tifton is doing well.

and is known to be a young lady of spotless character. The fact that her father and brothers are dead and she has no close relatives increase the bitter feeling against Crawley for his unwarranted conduct towards her.

The Daily Gazette was informed over long distance telephone from Ashburn Tuesday morning that F. J. Crawley, the white man accused of attempting to assault one of the young lady teachers in the Ashburn school, was arrested at Albany Monday night and lodged in the Dougherty county jail.

When the warrant was sworn out for Crawley Monday afternoon and he heard of it, he left town in a car. Learning that he was gone and the direction taken, two cars carrying about seven or eight Ashburn citizens followed him. They overtook Crawley on the Flint river bridge at Albany just after he had been placed under arrest by an Albany officer.

Crawley was remanded to the Dougherty county jail for safe keeping, as it was not considered safe to carry him back to Ashburn.

TIFT'S EXHIBIT AT STATE FAIR

Mr. Hollis Urges Farmers to Get Up Items.

FOR MAGON AND VALDOSTA

Fair Exhibits Will be on Display in Tifton Before Being Sent to the Fairs

We appreciate the editor's efforts in keeping before the people that Tift county would have an exhibit at the State Fair this year. We have also tried to enlist the interest of our neighboring farmers from early spring. Some of them now think they will not have anything worth while. It may be as good as they expected or would like for it to be, but remember the other farmers in the sixteen other counties have similar disadvantages.

Tift county made a creditable showing last year at Macon. This year we expect to exhibit at Valdosta October 19th and Macon October 26. One of the well regulated laws of commerce is that no enterprise can exhibit on credit alone, so we need your co-operation and want it—that we may get this work established for our county.

We have tried to formulate some plans whereby we would be able to hold a one-day county fair and offer first and second prizes for all articles. We find it impossible to raise this much ready cash so we have arranged to pay for all articles and will label or tag each, showing who raised it. We have also arranged for a place to store all exhibits and we will depend on you to help us make this collection-room a full one and before it is shipped we would like to be able to show you through.

We believe a little co-operative spirit started now will convince us of our own necessities and stimulate a market for our products also.

Were it possible for the Agricultural School to raise every article which can be grown on their farms and prepare all these in their various farms very few Tift county farmers' children would know it and, too, you have got to get individual interest to be able to get out of anything the most there is in it.

We hope to have some exhibits from all the schools of their work. Because we are in the lead already on this line of work we should make a fine showing.

Remember, this a Tift county exhibit and we want to make one that we will all be proud of.

Prof. S. L. Lewis and Mr. R. S. Kell are working to help get up this collection and have also the promise of the most artistic talent we know in putting this exhibit in shape.

It will be impossible for either of us to call personally on you all but let us know what you have and bring it in or write either of us and we will go to see you. Don't delay but get busy as soon as you read this.

We exhibited one hundred and forty-five farm and garden products last year and ninety-four table commodities.

We should easily show five hundred farm and garden products this year and hope to increase the number of table commodities. We will furnish you next week a list of articles of first prize winners.

President J. A. Cobb, of the State Agricultural Society, made a great speech at the first bull-veeving meeting at Thomasville when he told them to come to the State Fair and learn the possibilities of Georgia. So I say let us all get busy and come together and learn the possibilities of our own county.

Respectfully, J. W. HOLLIS.

WELL REPRESENTED

Tift Has Six Sons and A. M. S. Eleven Graduates at Georgia. Tift county and the Second District Agricultural School are probably better represented at the University of Georgia this year than any other county or school in the state.

There are six Tift county boys attending the University, Messrs. Drexel, Bowen, Etheredge, Clegg, John Rigdon and Young. All of these except one is a graduate of the Agricultural School and in addition to the Tift county boys from A. M. S. there are four others, Messrs. Wingo, Ingram, Byles and Owen Reynolds.

These boys stand high with their fellow students, too. Rigdon and Clegg are president of their classes and Drexel is a second lieutenant in the University military company, and is said to be one of the best drilled men in the entire University.

These boys are from a great school and a great county and they are making names for themselves, their alma mater and native county.

IN HURRICANE'S PATH

Twenty-Five Lives Taken in Mississippi Valley, Centering Around Vicksburg, Miss.

Memphis, Tenn., September 30.—The hurricane which hit New Orleans and is ripping its way up the Mississippi valley today has taken a toll of approximately twenty-five lives according to information reaching here through the railroad, telephone and telegraph circles. The damage already done is estimated at from one to five million dollars.

The storm center is in the vicinity of Vicksburg, Miss., this morning, and some of the reports state that it is moving towards North Georgia and East Tennessee.

The heaviest damage was done at New Orleans and along the Gulf coast. Many old landmarks have been irreparably damaged. One schooner was battered to pieces on Cat Island. Cotton was blown from the bolls, and many houses were unroofed at Jackson, Miss.

The water that was blown into New Orleans is receding. Vicksburg, Miss., September 30.—The hurricane is approaching this city today. The wind was blowing at the rate of 40 miles an hour at 8 o'clock this morning and the velocity is increasing.

No word has been received here from New Orleans. Atlanta, Ga., September 30.—All of the wires into New Orleans are still down, and the actual conditions and damage to that city is not yet known.

BAPTIST RALLY NEXT SUNDAY

Every Baptist in Georgia should go to Sunday School next Sunday. It is State Mission Day in the Baptist Sunday schools all over the South.

Every Baptist in Georgia and every other friend, who is not already associated with some other Sunday school, is urged to attend the Baptist Sunday school next Sunday.

SWEAT POSTMASTER

WON'T BE LONG SESSION

If He Can Help it, Says Governor. No Soft Drink Action.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 28.—In issuing his proclamation for the extra session of the legislature, which is to be held November 3rd, Governor Harris is not going to give some of the lawmakers a chance to drag in extraneous subjects. He says he will be so explicit that he hopes there will be no room for wrangles over matters not of an emergency nature. The session will not be prolonged and the expense increased if he can avoid it, he declared.

The soft drink bill of Judge W. W. Stark, of the Temperance committee of the house, will not get before the extra session of the general assembly, as he had planned. The governor has made it clear that his proclamation will bar the soft drink measure. Judge Stark intended to make the tax on soft drinks supply the deficiency in revenues which would be caused if prohibition bills passed.

So it's going to be a short session if the governor has anything to do with putting on a time limit. He is now working on his proclamation, which will be issued in the next day or two. It will call for action on the subjects of appropriations, prohibition, Western and Atlantic railroad, state warehouse system, fish and game law and automobile license tax provisions. Governor Harris sees no reason for touching on the state's finances. He says he hopes there would be no occasion to pass special tax laws to cover any deficit which might occur from the enactment of the prohibition legislation.
